Resignation.
CARSON TELLS WHY HE QUIT.

Says He Couldn't Agree with Near Eastern Policy.

Believes He Could be of no Use in the Cabinet.

Pays a High Compliment to the Other Members.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Coming direct from Buckingham Palace, where he handed to King George the seals of his office on his resignation from the Cabinet, Sir Edward Carson appeared in the House of Commons this afternoon and set at rest all conjecture regarding the reasons for his retirement.

Rising from his old seat on the platform, he said: "The former Attorney-General in a few words made the House conversant with the cause of the ministerial crisis, which he said was due entirely to the fact that he found himself in complete variance with the Cabinet in its interpretation of Near-Eastern policy. He felt, therefore, that his presence in the Cabinet would be a source of weakness and not of strength."

Sir Edward added that he never had had the slightest personal difference with any of his colleagues.

In expressing regret at the absence of Premier Asquith and stating that he for reasons would give a brief explanation, he said: "I have intended, Sir Edward Carson said.

"I am well aware of the difficulties under the existing circumstances of making any full statement or of saying anything that might be taken hold of as being an admission of weakness or divergence in the main object we have in view—of carrying the war at all sacrifices to a final and conclusive issue. I need hardly say that upon that issue there is no need for any difference, either in the Cabinet or in this house, or in this country, any disagreement or divergence of opinion."

"The real unity which the country wants is the steadfast unity of purpose to defend our interests and to save our country, and I entirely deny the fact of holding a divergent view as to the best methods to adopt to bring it to a successful conclusion is an entire fallacy."

"I have seen criticisms of myself and reasons for my resignation of a very petty and malicious character, attempting to make a party and political nature."

"I still desire to deal with these ridiculous assertions except to say that since I entered the Cabinet I never heard a word of discussion or dispute on those party questions which divided us."

"The whole desire to say that during the whole time I have been in the Cabinet I never had any personal difference either with the Prime Minister or with any other member of the Cabinet is only a courtesy I desire to acknowledge or with any one of my late colleagues."

"Difficulties which have arisen in the eastern war theaters have created a situation which to my mind must necessarily lead to far-reaching results."

"At the time I entered the Cabinet we already were committed to what may be called the operations in Gallipoli. It must be given credit to the fact that the new war theater in the Balkans created a situation which could not be divorced from our positions on the Gallipoli Peninsula; and the statements made in this house by the Foreign Minister, in his speech of the Cabinet, appeared to me to be an announcement of a policy of the highest importance with regard to our obligations in the Balkans involving our prestige and honor."

"That situation, with all its complications, was, in my opinion, a decisive policy on the part of the government; and finding myself unable to agree in any respect with what I understood to be a policy adopted by the government, I felt that my presence in the Cabinet could not be of any use in the critical situation in which we were involved."

"I ask the public to believe that in the course I have taken I have been actuated by no personal party motive, but I have acted to the best of my ability in the interest of my country."

Sir Edward Carson's speech was punctuated with cheers and was concluded amid loud cheering.

REVEALS PAST OF NEW HAVEN.

Mellen Tells how Railroad Gradually Got on Top.Testimony to be Used Against His ex-Associates.Witness Throws Light on the Days of Competition.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Charles S. Mellen, one-time president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, testified as a government witness today against the eleven men with whom he was formerly associated on the road's board of directors, whose trial on the charge of violating the Sherman anti-trust law began one year ago.

Standing before a government panel of the New England railroad system, with a long pointer in his hand, Mr. Mellen spent two hours explaining the nature of the competitive railroad conditions twenty-five years ago, when the New Haven's alleged conspiracy to control the entire passenger traffic of six states began.

The former New Haven president was greeted with every evidence of cordiality by the defendants, and there were numerous hand shakings. William Rockefeller was among several of the defendants who stepped forward to converse with him.

IS NOW A FARMER.

Mr. Mellen gave his occupation as "farmer—an agriculturist." He told of his railroad experience, which dated back to 1868, when he was a clerk in the cashier's office of the New Haven Railroad at New Haven. Then he took to the map the routes of the dozen New England railroads which in 1890 had an independent existence. He described their steamboat line connections with New York and other points, and their rail connections with other roads outside of New England. The New Haven at that time was not much of a freight line.

The mining companies have established a tent colony at Duncan, about 200 people are quartered in some sixty tents. The miners assert that the tent colony was established to care for employees until the strike is over. Strikers, however, accuse the owners of assembling a body of men at Duncan with the intent of using them.

The arrival of forty "relief" men from El Paso at Duncan last night caused a strike to be called out to take charge of the Clifton smelter. A heavy force of pickets went to the smelter of the miners, who are the strikers. The alarm was false, but a picket remained on duty during the night. Pickets remained on duty during the night and tonight were watching every approach to Clifton.

WANT FEDERAL INQUIRY.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, and Charles W. Eliot, its president-emeritus, took issue today with those who would carry military preparedness into the grammar schools. Military drills in these schools, President Lowell said at a hearing before a legislative committee, were of no importance whatever in the development of soldiers, and the teaching of military history, he thought, while of some value in the high schools, would be useless among boys in the lower grades. He opposed any plan of drafting young men into the militia.

The young men of the United States Army at the present time, Dr. Lowell thought, are not sufficient in number of officers. He believed the colleges could and would co-operate in the education of such officers. Harvard, he added, would be glad of an opportunity to take part in the work.

Dr. Lowell said that his objection to military drill in the public schools was based principally on the fact that it was a bad form of physical exercise. The army spirit, he asserted, was American, but dependence on implicit obedience meant subjection to another's will, and that he held it was not a good way to train young Americans.

CALLS HALT ON BOND ISSUES.Railroad Man Opposes Plan to Build Highways.Says People Apt to be Eaten up by Taxation.Prohibitionist Argues for Saving Parties.

Opposition to the proposed issuance of $2,500,000 roads bonds is spreading generally over the county owing to the effective campaign being waged by the Bond Opposition Committee, consisting of representatives of the Municipal League, Chamber of Commerce and Automobile Club of Southern California, all of which organizations have gone on record against the bonds.

Maps showing the futility of the proposed bond issue will be sent to nearly every voter in the county before the end of the week. These maps show the original good roads system, the State roads, the district assessment roads and the highways planned by the State and the visitors under the proposed bond issue.

It is pointed out that the people of the county spent $750,000 for approximately 200 miles of good roads, and for a similar length of highways the proposed roads will require the expenditure of $2,500,000. The committee is not opposed to the extension of the good roads system and points to the work of the Chamber of Commerce, the Auto Club and the Municipal League in the past in proof of this.

The committee contends that the proposed scheme is too expensive, that it is impracticable and that not a single engineering fact was used upon which to base an estimate of cost.

The members of the committee received written statements from some of the leading men of Los Angeles supporting its stand against the bonds.

Chief among these is a letter from J. Ross Clark, railroad man and capitalist, who desires that there is danger of the people being taxed to death.

In his letter to Secretary Frank Wigging says:

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has been one of the greatest factors in the development of the growth in building up the Southwest through many years of sane advertising of our resources, which has been the means of bringing a great many people to this southwest; and now I want to congratulate the Chamber on the start of the new year in trying to keep these people from being eaten up by reckless expenditures of money for good roads and many other things that are unnecessary at this time. While I approve of good roads, they should be constructed on the line of Southern California and particularly Los Angeles county, is further ahead with its good roads construction than perhaps any other section of the United States, taking into consideration that we are only about twenty-five years old.

Taxpayers generally are becoming very much disengaged with the increased taxation and this continual call for bond issues for various things, and, under some measure taken by some institutions, the Chamber of Commerce and others to help curb it, we are not going to grow; in fact, a great many people feel very strongly that they would like to dispose of their holdings, and not be eaten up by taxation.

FOR PARTIES.
PROHIBITIONIST TALKS.

The Party Defense League is speeding up its strenuous fight against the proposed adoption of the anti-party by having rallies in every part of the city and county each night. A banner of cotton is on the platform each night urging the people to preserve their party lines.

H. Clay Needham, a leading Prohibitionist, whose party has joined with the Republicans, Democrats and Socialists, signed the following statement to members of his party:

"Some of us are old fashioned enough that we do not desire to be jostled out of our accustomed habits and privileges too rudely, or suddenly.

"For instance, the writer for more than forty years has been voting the Prohibition party ticket, and feels that it is not only an act of unkindness, but injustice as well, that now in his old age he sought to deprive him of the privilege of keeping his political escutcheon clean for the few years yet given him by casting a ballot for the party which represents the only political protest against the legalized liquor traffic, no doubt there are others who feel just as intensely on other questions.

"To accomplish any advance, or reform, it is necessary to join together in an organized effort, those who are like minded to enable them to make their influence felt.

"A thousand mules, unharnessed, passing up thepike, would deliver no freight, accomplish no purpose. About the only possible thing they could do would be to kick; organisms with harness and a dozen will start the windups of traffic, and begin to deliver the goods."

State Senator Ballard spoke against the no-party law at a meeting of the Women's Million Club yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. R. W. Richardson, president of the Women's Republican League, and a number of other speakers will address a gathering of women at the City Hall, Huntington Park, Saturday afternoon. They will speak against the anti-party bills.

HE FINDS IT.

Match Locates Gas Leak in Manhole
Quickly and Would-be Repair Man
Goes to the Hospital.

Frank Sans thought the way to hunt for a gas leak in a manhole was to light a match and look for it. He tried it yesterday at Second and Hill streets, and two minutes later was in the Receiving Hospital having serious burns to his hands and face treated.

A live match at 45th and Euclid street and is in the employ of the city. Complaints were received yesterday regarding the strong odor of gas at Second and Hill streets. The trail of the gas fumes led to the manhole and compelled to locate the leak and repair it.

When his match arrived in business communication with the gas flow, Sans was blown back against the walls of the pit. Other workmen heard the explosion and rescued the victim, carrying him on their backs to the Receiving Hospital. His eyes were not injured.

Says He Thought Policeman a Burglar.

Harry Duncan,
Admitted slayer of Police Sergt. J. F. Toolen when the latter went to the Duncan home to arrest him. Duncan was arrested yesterday morning.

Slayer Tamely Taken.

He was not afraid he would hit his mother when he sent a deadly bullet past her into the heart of Sgt. Toolen. He recounted some of his criminal career and told of the first time he was arrested. It was in Bakersfield when he was jailed for helping a yegarman to break out of the county jail. The end of the business address came with a fire. Records of the Retail Board of Trade show that the insurance was garnished by the creditors.

Assistant Chief Home said last night that the capture of Harry Duncan and his subsequent confession did much to clear the mystery surrounding the actions of George Duncan, Sr. Tuesday. It was not known whether a bullet or a gun was used.

Duncan, who was a father, was a son of the man who was shot and killed by Harry Duncan or the father. The prisoner declared he shot but five times and Patrolman White, who previously stated that at least ten bullets were discharged, admitted that he may have been mistaken. It is now believed that the father did not participate in the shooting, but he will be held for investigation.

taken to the identification bureau where his Bertillon measurements were taken and there an affecting scene ensued. His wife, Eva Duncan, who was arrested on suspicion Tuesday morning, and their two children were brought before him. Both parents were tearfully with the girls, one 3 years old and the other 4 months, of course, could not understand. Duncan whispered once to his wife, but she was crying so bitterly that she did not answer. When she again spoke he said, "I am all right, I broke down again and it was with difficulty he regained his composure.

Duncan's story of the shooting and capture are disbelieved by the police. They are of the opinion he is a shrewd criminal and a tale that would tend to minimize his crime, without regard to truth.

The prisoner said he was approached by Constable Day, who had no revolver, and he gave up because he was afraid he had. "The officer did not know me a man until we went over to his house," he said.

The constable stated he held the man up at the point of a gun, telling him if he did not throw up his hands he would kill him in his tracks, and, together with Sheriff Chinn, brought him into the station.

Duncan will be arraigned at 10 o'clock this morning before Justice Hinshaw on a formal charge of murder. Other members of his family will also be arraigned, two of the boys on charges of burglary and the remainder for less serious offenses.

Duncan, who is a lather by trade, said last night he at one time was a member of the Internation Lather Union. He did not give out recent.

The funeral of Sergeant Toolen will be held this morning at Epiphany Church, Sichel and Alura streets. The police band, color-bearers, guard and commanding officer will accompany the remains from the church to the funeral. The escort will be in charge of Lieut. Johnson. The pall-bearers will be Serata, A. W. Gifford, Cleve Heath, J. J. Mart, C. F. Jackson, J. M. Hoover and Dan Long.

IN BUSINESS.

The Duncan family during last year was in the grocery business, conducting two stores. One of them was located at No. 4422 Central Avenue and the other at No. 2501 East Fourth street. Several of the sons assisted their father in operating them. Both their under and upper addresses are kept secret. The end of the business address came with a fire. Records of the Retail Board of Trade show that the insurance was garnished by the creditors.

BREAK YOURSELF OF
THE LAXATIVE HABIT

LAXATIVES and cathartics cause more constipation than they cure. Nujol is the modern treatment for constipation. It conforms in all essentials to the requirements of the mineral oil treatment as prescribed by its discoverer, Sir William Arbuthnot Lane.

Nujol is odorless and tasteless, absolutely neutral, and is not digested or absorbed into the system. It acts merely as a mechanical lubricant.

Nujol is not a drug. Its use will not give quick, temporary relief. But Nujol is a genuine remedy in that it relieves constipation in the most natural way by lubricating the lining of the intestines, softening the intestinal contents, and thus promoting healthy and normal bowel activity.

URDAY MORNING.

FOOT'S EX-WIFE

Tried to Stay Him.*Attempt to Murder
Divorced Woman.*Constable Adolph Laughlin, of South Alameda street, drew from his hip pocket last night and shot his divorced wife, Mrs.
Fowler Laughlin, then turned against the chest of O. O.
Simons, a boarder in his wife's house, and pulled the trigger. Mr.
Laughlin was only slightly wounded.*Shooting was the outcome of a quarrel between Laughlin and his wife at her home, No. 246 Avenue Nineteen. The trouble began when Mrs. Laughlin refused to return to her former husband and told him that he had the $7,500 she had given to her for the care of their two children.*Laughlin, who had been dismissed from his former household, Mrs. Laughlin's right and according to Police Surgeon
John C. Marshall, may have pierced the walls of the stomach.*According to Joe Ybarra of Palms, who was in the house visiting Miss Fowler, when the shooting occurred, Laughlin arrived early in the morning and started to talk with his wife. Becoming enraged over the new revolver, according to the police, he started shooting, saying to end it all right here."*The first bullet struck his wife, who is a roomer with the revolver from his right hand. Marshall said he checked as he stood over the fallen woman with the revolver in his hand, and shot was fired and Williams had a bullet in the chest. Then he arrived and arrested*After an investigation by King and Oaks Laughlin ended up on a charge of assault and murder.*During the investigation it was discovered that a year ago last fall the divorce, Mrs. Laughlin attempted to shoot her while she was standing in front of the Hall of Records, but fired by Laughlin at that time he did not attempt to shoot his wife a year ago,
but shooting at another person,
standing near her. Laughlin is 42 years old.*They, too, Pass On.

TREND OF THE FINANCIAL NEWS.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.

(At Home:) Speculation was of a more normal character, wide price quotations being rare, and there was a whole being held steady. Reports that Russia is seeking new credit loan of $25,000,000 over here, gave more firmness to general financial dealings. Interest disbursements, due for November, show an increase of $12,000,000 over a year ago.

(Abroad:) The Russian government, in addition to foreign credits, is to float an internal war loan of $500,000,000.

(For details, see financial pages.)

SHE TOLD YOU SO.

S It would seem that Mrs. Bellamy-Storer did not have her political vision destroyed in her argument with the hero of the River of Doubt. She said that President Wilson's flop would help the suffrage cause by "exactly one vote, and this is just what happened."

WISHING HIM WELL.

Now that Carranza has been recognized abroad, nothing remains to crown his success but recognition in Mexico. Inasmuch as he started the Constitutional movement at the head of an army of only forty men at a time when Huerta was recognized by every state in Mexico except the one to which Carranza had been appointed Governor by the murdered Madero, he may be able to bring about this further miracle.

NOT GUILTY.

On the day of its celebration the apple was referred to all over the country as the King of Fruits. Now that shows what advertising will do. The apple doesn't mind what is said about it, so long as it gets itself mentioned. The first reference to an apple might be considered disadvantageous to its success, but the main thing seems to be to have a reputation, regardless of whether it is good or bad. The apple is king, but is it a good king? When did an orange or a grapefruit or even a strawberry result in the fall of man?

THE SOFT ANSWER.

So far the conference between the labor agitators and the mine owners held at El Paso in behalf of the regrettable situation at Clifton, Ariz., has amounted to nothing but wrangling. The right of the mine owners to operate their own properties without the interference of outside meddlers and walking delegates is indisputable, yet when once such a situation reaches the point of a meeting between the two factions, it ought to proceed with moderation of terms.

EXACTLY AS IT IS.

E Japan's Vice-Consul to Los Angeles may or may not be a diplomat, but he is distinctly not a "middle of the road" man. He has the vision to see an issue and the courage to look it squarely in the face. He brings the whole situation of interrelation with the Orient squarely before both nations when he says that the people of the two countries may or may not like one another, but nature has made them neighbors and it is up to them to make an intelligent choice as to whether they will be good or bad neighbors.

EXPERTS IN DIPLOMACY.

There are many crowded professions, yet the most important has been overlooked. We refer to the profession of diplomacy. The entire world is in dire need of diplomats. There should be men who make a business of tact, men who can make wide circles and then narrow them down so that, by a fine process of logic, all irrelevant matters can be eliminated or at least temporarily set aside and the heart of every difficulty be reached without the chief end being defeated through small and irritating particulars. The time will come when the best lawyers will work, in so far as possible, from this angle, and when every big business will have its own expert in tact who will simply be a lubricator of the whole machinery of the company. As it is, the world strangles itself with the most absurd friction at unnecessary points, friction that is both futile and needless.

NEW JERSEY REJECTS WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

A New Jersey Democrat gave to the New York Herald the reasons why he opposed woman suffrage. "New Jersey," said he, "outside of a few industrial centers is a country of small farmers who raise truck and fruit and poultry for the New York and Philadelphia markets. We don't want our women folks to go gadding to town to attend political meetings and elections, and neglecting their cooking and washing and chores. It's all right when a farmer goes to town to buy things for fall or Christmas to take his wife along. Sure, no one kicks at that. But this fixing up the law so women can vote is another matter. When a man living two, or three, or twenty miles back in the country, goes to town on election day he don't want no wife along. Not on your life. That's his day off. If he wants to take a few—but anyhow a man wants to go to town himself once in a while, and that's what election's for. If it's a temperature town a man might rustle up something if his wife wasn't along. If she was along there never would be a chance in the world. So, I'm agin it."

Fifty thousand majority against votes for women! Who that could avoid it would live in New Jersey!

CITIZEN SOLDIERS.

Six million American citizens, all going peacefully about their various duties, yet all capable at a moment's notice of answering the call to defend their country, is a practical plan of preparedness that ought to appeal to the patriotism of a strong self-supporting nation. This, as a programme of home defense, has met the approval of the President and by the co-operation of the people at a very small expense will be as effective as any form of conscription, at the same time keeping us free from the burden of a standing army and the peril of imbelling the military spirit.

We have a hundred million men and women all ready to stand by their flag to the last ditch if necessary. Six million men, capable as well as willing, will make the last-ditch-war-defense a necessity that will never materialize.

The success of the plan does not depend on any large appropriation from Congress, though it will probably entail an addition to the number of permanent military officers trained to the science and strategy of modern operations in the field. For the work of officering large armies cannot be taken up as a side issue; it requires the full time and concentration of all special work.

But as regards the rank and file of such a citizen army, its success depends solely on the public spirit of the nation. A chance is thus given democracy to prove itself as valuable, as preparedness for foreign aggression as it has proved its excellence in fostering the occupations of peace. Our country asks us to combine for the protection of our flag in a way possible for every citizen without losing too much valuable time or incurring new financial burdens.

In this scheme for national defense employers and employees are asked to cooperate jointly—employers in granting their men sufficient leave of absence to engage in two months of military training in each of three years, and the men to devote that amount of time to learning the qualifications that without unnecessary delay will turn a peace-loving citizen into a home-defending warrior.

The discipline, the physical training, the ability to think and act smartly resulting from two months of camp life will not be a loss to those who thus show their devotion to their country and their flag in a practical way. Should a call to arms never come—and at the same time we shall be increasing our efforts to prevent its coming—these citizen soldiers will have acquired extra vigor and strength for carrying on the strenuous fights of everyday life.

Employers, too, should consider the badge of the citizen soldier as a badge of distinction and honor and other things being equal preference and promotion should go to those who have availed themselves of the opportunity to get the military discipline. After the three years are up liability for service, except in case of actual war, ceases.

On employers, then, to a great extent depends the success of the movement. Men devoting part of their time to military service should be insured against any loss of position or serious decrease in their wages. We may take it for granted that volunteer citizen soldiers ready to fit themselves for meeting any national emergency will be the pick of our civilian population. We believe not only will such be held in high honor by their friends and neighbors but quicker promotion and better wages will follow.

At any rate we feel sure that the taunt will never be applicable in America that Lord Northcliffe hurled against his fellow British subjects, namely that "the patriots go to war and the skunks remain behind to steal the business of the absent soldier." If we do raise a defense army of six million citizens, every man and woman in America will see that no single one of them loses anything for his patriotic devotion.

SOLID BASIS.

Nothing is so wearing and disturbing to the human mind as uncertainty and suspense. And for many years property owners in the north and northwest section of Los Angeles have been kept in a constant state of uncertainty. There has been much talk—big talk—of improvements to come which would open up the hill section and counterbalance the movement to the south. The civic center plans, opening Bunker Hill, tunnels through the hills, viaducts, the Silver Lake parkway improvements, widening First street, extending and improving Temple street—all of these and many more improvements have been discussed and at times promised—and so far little has materialized.

Now there is another chance to put property in a large and rapidly growing section of the city on a solid basis by making the open cut through First street, as proposed by the Holmes plan, and by voting the bonds for the Civic Center as proposed by the N.E.W. Commercial and Improvement Association and other organizations, and by carrying out the plans for the new bridge across the river, giving direct communication with Glendale, Tropico, San Fernando Valley, and a large section of territory, besides opening up a hitherto little known "close-in" section of the city.

With these three improvements assured; with the widening and improving of First street and the improvement of Temple street to Western avenue, a revival of values and of improvements would at once result which would far exceed the necessary outlay to make these needed improvements. The extension of the Temple street car line to a connection with the Vermont avenue line, at least, would accommodate a large number of people now located in that section and would bring a rapid growth, for with a direct line into the city this would become a desirable residence section, within easy distance of the downtown district.

The definite settlement of the First street opening and of the Civic Center location, would bring about the other changes automatically. These two are the vital issues today which every citizen who has the good of the city as well as his own personal interests at heart should seriously consider and support. If these two projects fail to materialize soon it will mean another indefinite period of waiting, worry and uncertainty for the people who have struggled against adverse circumstances and steadily declining values for the past dozen or more years. It will mean another serious set-back to every piece of property north of Sixth street. Those who have made large investments and are now getting good returns for them, between Fourth and Seventh streets, may look forward to an

GIFTS AND GREED.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

We are taught that it is more blessed to give than to receive. Certainly it is more dignified. Yet there are many to be found who exhibit their gifts with pride, who assume that gifts are evidence of their own charm rather than evidence of the generosity of the givers.

The proud spirit will always hasten to liquidate an obligation with some sort of gift. Orientals are scrupulous in their dispensation of gifts, from their monarchs down to the vegetable Chinaman. It is a matter of self-respect with them, quite as much as a tangible appreciation of services rendered.

When a prima donna, an actress, a dancer is the means of giving pleasure to a royal personage, they are invariably rewarded with a gift in addition to their fee. A royal favor, yes, and a gentle royal hint to the effect that patronage is his. The mere payment for services rendered leaves honors easy, the gift establishes superiority.

A gift from an inferior to a superior is a very delicate matter. Generally it is in bad taste, yet it either be ignored or repaid, if the status quo is to be maintained. Genuine admiration and affection are often expressed in gifts, yet the act has something of selfishness in it, for if the recipient is a normal, self-respecting person, the obligation is obvious and must be offset to the best of his ability. Otherwise a sense of patronage is inevitable.

It is this sense of patronage as much as anything else that is the foundation of the feminist movement. With a more cultivated intelligence, woman began to feel the unfair obligation of the gift and fretted under it. When she was indebted to her father, to her lover, to her husband for all that was hers with nothing but a gift of herself, which she assumed to bestow it all too readily on the first available suitor, who was obviously in a position to embarrass her with still more gifts, her sensibilities fought, often unconsciously but quite definitely, against her undignified position. She wants to be in a position to bestow gifts, as well as to receive them, masculine faith to the contrary.

It is the general ability of man to make gifts that maintains his superiority. Directly the man is forced into the position of receiving, as when he marries for money, he never fails to lose caste with both sexes. The suitor who showers gifts upon the object of his admiration knows very well that inasmuch as she accepts them, he is pillars of the community, a man of position, who can only repudiate with loss of character, or liquidate by complying with his desires. The amateur arioi pride herself on taking all and giving nothing, but all the clever callousness in the world cannot save her self-respect. If she is so unattractive as not to scorn herself, the world soon finds her out and does it for her.

It is the power of the gift that is responsible for the muddy complexion of politics. The power to give, not the power to govern, that often makes the political machine strong. A proud nation and graft politics a ridiculous paradox which cannot be sustained. So long as the servile office-seeker is prepared to accept the gift of a salary which he is incapable or unwilling to earn, he need not necessarily place himself under a humiliating obligation to the bosses, who will exact the full of reciprocity.

It is the greedy acceptance of the fatal tip that makes it impossible for a writer to be a proud democrat. By his act he acknowledges his inferiority of social rank.

The bride who exhibits a proud array of gifts—how often are they the mere expression of affection and good will? So rarely. The bulk of that brazen array are frank obligations liquidated, as economically as possible. Or else they indicate hopes of social favors to come.

"Oh, my dear, I simply must give the girl a wedding present. I have been to so many of their parties."

"Oh, we must ask so-and-so, they gave us that handsome wedding present."

These are remarks that are usual to us because we have been used to the insult implied, callous to the indelicacy so patent.

The exhibition of happy conceit that the recipient of many gifts so often displays, is perhaps natural. A glorious self-appreciation lulls them into the belief that they have deserved every one of them. Still, the obligations are apt to rankle. That attitude of deserving virtue does not go very deep. Even the most thick-skinned of receivers cannot get far away from the sense of patronage, of the urgent necessity for some form of repayment. Reciprocity is the essence of the proud spirit.

Do you suppose that China would have submitted to the United States if we had not been in a position to patronize her? That gracious act by which the United States waived the war indemnity of the Boxer rebellion was actually a clever diplomatic stroke which has placed the proud oriental nation under the necessity of permitting us many subtle impositions. They know it and we know it.

Even the gifts of God are hard to bear. We love the gift but fret under the obligation to deserve it. He is a happy man who repays God in full for the gifts that have been showered upon him. Then only can he hold up his head before man without any misgivings. The weak are destroyed by their gifts, the strong liquidate them and are happy.

RIPPLING RHYMES.
COOL NIGHTS.

The summer night's a total loss; we go to bed and kick and toss and groan and shriek and pray; we wallow on our beds and weep, in vain—we cannot get to sleep until the break of day. And then the milkman comes along and whangs his large and strident gong, the errant newsboys scream, the grocer's man is at the door, and all the wheels of traffic roar, and spill the morning dream. But in the fall how well we rest! When I've removed my shoes and vest, and to my couch I go, I find myself at once asleep, enjoying rest profound and deep, the kind that children know. For seven hours or so I snooze, refreshing weary gams and thumbs, from grief and care also; if you could wake me in the night, you'd have to bring me dynamite and blow me through the roof. And in the morning at half past five, I wake, so glad that I'm alive, that I must sing and dance; I sing and whistle, sound and bale, as I put on my martingale, my shirtwaist and my pane. Take all your potions, dope and pills, and throw them in the babbling rills; they are no use to men; when one can sleep for seven hours, that little nap restores his powers, and makes him young again.

The UNNAMED DEAD.

Each day, each night, there is no rest for the unnamed.

Their final resting place is in one place.

Summer or winter, snow or sun, they lie.

They sleep alone, or stashed up in a mound.

No more shall they know about the ground.

Beneath which they smothered will lie.

Others, who gladly died, have won at least some symbol, green or red, of remembrance. We know the names of those who have given their lives for us. And give them, we cease.

With toast and wine, we pay our respects to the dead.

We shall remember you, our

New Issue.

WILL NOT BUILD, SAYS RAILROAD.FIGHTS CONSTRUCTION ORDER OF COMMISSION.

Santa Fe Asks Rehearing of Case in Which State Board Directed Building of New Line to Take Place of One Washed Out Two Decades Ago.

Asserting that the State Railroad Commission had no jurisdiction to force the building of a railroad through an unproductive district, the Santa Fe filed an application with the commission yesterday, to the relief of the complainant which resulted in the order of the commission for the reconstruction of the washed-out line between Temecula and Oceanside.

The case came before the commissioners from the Santa Fe, the Carillon Club of San Diego and numerous civic bodies and Chambers of Commerce of San Diego and Riverside counties. They submitted evidence to show that a bonus, consisting of land and money, had been given to the railroad by the state, and that the state had given several millions of dollars to the predecessors of the Santa Fe for the purpose of building a line of railroad from San Diego northward through Riverside and San Bernardino counties for the purpose of gaining a transcontinental outlet.

This road was constructed in 1884 and operated until 1891, when it was washed-out, road was never rebuilt miles between Temecula and Fallbrook. The building of the Colorado-Orange cutoff followed, and the washed-out road was never rebuilt. Two possible routes for reconstruction have been suggested, one from Temecula to Fallbrook and the other from Temecula to the San Joaquin Valley to Oceanside. The estimated cost of the former is $67,000 and of the latter $822,000.

The building of the higher-priced road is recommended by the commissioners, as it will tap an undeveloped section comprising valleys of 40,000 acres or more. In the original order of the commission the railroad was allowed ninety days within which to submit plans and was required to have the road built within one year after plans were approved.

As this is the first time in the history of the State that an order has been issued by the Railroad Commission directing a railroad to construct a new line, the progress of the case is watched with interest by railroad men.

In its application for a rehearing, the Santa Fe stated that the commission has no jurisdiction to require the building of the road, because the company has no franchise to build or operate such a line, the commission has no power to force railroads to acquire the right of way and build lines, and because evidence is lacking that such a line can be profitably operated on that existing facilities are inadequate.

The Santa Fe also states that the commissioners must regard public interests, not moral or contractual obligations, in rendering their decision, and that the railroad will have to operate two lines from Oceanside, a village of 1500 people, to Fallbrook, a village of 500 people, with no substantial business between them.

The Cabrillo Club and other contestants rest their case by asserting that they parted with their bonuses in good faith, and that the company had not fulfilled its part of the obligation. The Santa Fe's reply to this is that it fulfilled its original obligation, and was not bound by the agreement to rebuild the line after it was once washed out.

HOPE IN WORLD LEAGUE.

Boston Woman Advocates Boycott for Offending Nations—Decrees Movement for Heavier Armament.

Declaring an International League to Enforce Peace by use of the boycott will be the great power of the future, and decrying the preparedness movement in this country, Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of Boston, who was one of the speakers at the International Peace Congress at San Francisco, spoke twice yesterday to pupils of the Normal School and to clubmen at the Friday Morning Club.

She declared this country is being "Prussianized"—conquered by the German "iron" theory of force. Unarmed offers of mediation without armistice would be welcomed by the warring nations, she said, and declared that government, with other neutrals, should join in arranging a "commission" to offer negotiations through suggestions.

MOVEMENTS IN SOCIETY.

A Notable Engagement.

M. R. AND MRS. EDWARD B. TUFTS announce the engagement of their only daughter, Marjorie, to Arthur L. Trowbridge of New York. The marriage will take place here in April, but the date has yet been decided upon. The young couple will live in New York.

It is a romance evolving out of that tour of the world which Mrs. Tufts and Marjorie made two years ago. They met Arthur Trowbridge and his brother, Edward, last fall in the course making a tour of the world, following graduation from Princeton University.

The bridegroom-elect is a son of James Trowbridge, the New York financier, 22 years of age, and he has just returned with his father from that year to renew acquaintance with Miss Marjorie, intent upon taking her back with them and then there. They stayed at the Huntington. Miss Marjorie paid them a long visit this summer, from which she returned but three weeks ago, to confide the great news to her parents.

The Trowbridges have a beautiful winter home on Park avenue, Thirty-third Street, New York, and their summer home is at Marion, Long Island Sound, which was the scene of the culmination of the romance.

Marjorie Tufts is prominent and much beloved in the social life of Los Angeles, and holder of many tennis trophies, in which game she excels. She added greatly to their number while in the East this year. She graduated from Marlborough College two years ago, and has not yet made a formal debut in society.

The fact that their daughter will have to live in the East is the one disappointment to Mr. and Mrs. Tufts, who will find it very hard to part with their only child.

Mrs. Barker (formerly Miss Martha Woolwine, the bride of a year ago) gave the first complimentary party for Miss Tufts Saturday evening.

For Montecito.

Mrs. Stephen V. Childs of No. 3125 West Adams street and her two children leave today for Santa Barbara, to be the guests for the next ten days of Mr. and Mrs. Seth A. Keane of Montecito.

ANGELS TAKE BAT BATTLE.

Jack Ryan Pounded but has Real Support.

Joe Gedon Drops Fly Ball Which is Costly.

Blankenship and Buddy are Canned by Held.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
SALT LAKE, Oct. 20.—The score of 19 to 8 indicates just about how much the Angels outplayed Salt Lake in a long-drawn-out and listless game of ball this afternoon. The veteran, Jack Ryan, was clouted hard enough to lose most games of baseball, but Jack hit in two runs himself to offset the whaling he was getting, one of his drives being a homer over the right field wall.

Bert Hall got in bad right from the jump, when, after he had walked Margot and retired the next two men Joe Gedon dropped an easy fly out which should have been the third out. Zeb Terry again came to the rescue, as he did yesterday, and sent both runners over with a single.

Her sincerity wins.

Grace Travers, whose careful artistry in the portrayal of her characterizations is being seen to good advantage this week in "Under Cover" at the Burbank Theater.

Grace KINGSLEY

Grace de Haven, vaudeville favorite, will arrive today to begin picture work with the Universal.

Fannie's Jewels.

Fannie Ward, who is to do a Morocco play, and also appear in the Lasky pictures this winter, brought her famous $200,000 collection of jewels West with her last week. She was pined on the occasion of her last trip, and brought only a meager $50,000 worth.

Fife Long Felt Want.

There is a rumor on the Rialto that Bert Levey is to take over the Majestic Theater, and turn it into a 10-cent popular movie house. Whether or not there is anything this town is suffering for, it is another vaudeville house.

Cobb as Vanderlin.

Irv S. Cobb is reported as about to take a flier into vaudeville. Having connections in the diplomatic pay-off that back at the war front, Mr. Cobb feels prepared to meet the booking agents.

"Infant Phenomenon."

We don't hold it against Alice Lorraine that she is the "infant phenomenon," especially if she will promise to sing once more Mr. Frankenstein's "I Love You California," which won the athletic club last year.

Geraldine Some Actress.

The pre-view of "Carmen," shown at Tally's Broadway last night, with Geraldine Farrar in the leading role, showed the picture to be one of the most artistic, from every standpoint, that has ever been shown. Miss Farrar's personality and acting get over with remarkable force and fascination.

Scratches Highways.

For the period of at least one year, Lillian Lorraine, the Balboa star who is appearing in "Neal of the Navy," the new picture, which will probably have to curb her speeding propensities. Found guilty of exceeding the speed limit recently, Miss Lorraine was fined $40 and sentenced to fifty days in jail. The court suspended the jail

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS BURIED IN DUCKS.

SHOOT HUNDRED AND THIRTY BIRDS IN TWO DAYS' SHOOTING.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

BIG BEAR VALLEY, Oct. 20.—Four High School boys went out of the valley today with the best record of any of the duck hunters who have been here. The four boys were here but two days, but when they left for Redlands they took with them 130 ducks. The boys are Harold Linsen, Bruce Cousins, Wesley Frost and Laurin Laughlin. The boys also have a cool which they shot here. Linsen has a good record as a hunter, for a few weeks ago he shot a fine deer and later a big mountain lion.

The happy couple left late in the evening on a trip, but held their destination a secret. They expect to be away a week or ten days, and will spend the winter in San Francisco.

HORSES ARRIVE FROM ENGLAND.

KING EDWARD AMONG RACERS IN SHIPMENT TO THE UNITED STATES.

(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—En route to California ten race horses are stabled in the riding academy of A. P. Hexamer in Hoboken today. They arrived to the standard and were at once taken to the stable where they will be held until the ones to whom they are assigned forward shipping directions.

Among the ten is King Edward, who has been a great favorite in England. He is valued at $20,000. The entire shipment is valued at $100,000.

THE CUBS HAVE NOT BEEN SOLD.

OWNER OF MAJORITY STOCK DENIES THE RUMORS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

CINCINNATI (O.) Oct. 20.—Charles P. Taft, owner of the majority of the stock of the Chicago National League baseball club, denied emphatically here today the report that the club had been sold.

Twenty L. A. High track aspirants toiled up Silverhill on a cross-country run last night and learned where they could get $3 hats. Coach Goddard declined to publish the time for the 2 and 3-mile course, but seemed pleased with what his blust registered. From the winners were picked captains for the relay race.

Goddard, who was first to finish but since he had declared himself a non-contestant the title was awarded to a ninth-grader named Moyer.

Moyer was named as freshman captain, and Leslie Abraham, William T. Johnson and Carl Harpster as sophomore, junior and senior leaders respectively.

The men finished in the following order: Arthur, Moyer, Stiles, Abraham, Prichard, Weissman, Lewis, Harpster, Higman, Todman, Wade and Bulkeley.

DO NOT DRINK IF YOU DRIVE.

RAILROAD OFFICIAL MAKES REMARKS AT SAFETY COUNCIL.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—The man who drinks even moderately, is unfit to drive an automobile and should be forbidden to sit at the wheel of a car, said J. C. Ross, chief claims agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad in a address at today's session of the National Safety Council. The speaker urged that drivers' licenses be issued only to total abstainers.

"Oh, yes," responded the good looking man with a pleased smile.

"All right," briefly responded Peggy, "I think we've got a very good type for the Ambassador."

"But," went on the gentleman with a twinkle.

"Oh, the money will be all right," said Peggy—"55 a day."

"How nice!" exclaimed the man, with a smile.

"That's all right. I can't let you here now to talk it over; I'm too busy. Go around to the wardrobe woman. Here, write your name on that card."

The gentleman did as he was bid, and when Peggy read it she bethold the name of Frank Garbutt, one of the wealthiest motion picture men in the country, and half owner of the Morocco Photoplay Company and studio.

Peggy wilted.

Columbia University will go in for boxing contests this fall, as some of the students are clever in the art of hitting and getting away.

WHALING MAY GO TO FEDES.

Friends of Bert Whaling, late of the Boston Braves, incline to the belief that he will not consent to play on the Coast next season.

Whaling, as a member of the Boston club, said one of these, "has been accustomed to the big money. He also figures that he was sent back to the minors somewhat prematurely. The Federals would be glad to land him, and it would not surprise me to see him with them next season."

At the City Hall.
MADISON-VIRGIL
HEARING CLOSED.

ALAMEDA-STREET DRAIN ALSO PROMISES TROUBLE.

Council Denies All Protests and Reaffirms Assessments Made by Board of Public Works While Protesters Prepare to Sue for Payments from General Fund.

On final hearing yesterday all protests against the assessments for the Madison-Virgil storm drain were denied and the assessments levied by the Board of Public Works were confirmed.
Residents of the district now purpose to bring suit in an effort to compel the city to pay the $24,000 cost of the drain.

White on Madison-Virgil hearing was in full blast. President Betkowski was served with notice that the Southern Pacific Railroad will seek to enjoin the city from collecting the assessments on the Alameda street storm drain. Protesters against these assessments were denied by the Council last week.

The final session before the Council yesterday was more stormy than for the meeting a week ago, and the Council was a bunch of gratters who cheered to the echo and when a word of defense for the Council's action in ordering the improvement was offered, remarks "Ho-ho" and "taint so,"
were flung from the galleries.

Councilwoman Conwell recalled that sixteen months ago the Council was besieged by another crowd, and men and women with tears rolling down their cheeks begged the Council to desist from the improvement. The crowd jeered when Mr. Conwell said that the problem of disposing of storm water in Los Angeles is as great as is the problem of getting pure water into the city.

Councilwoman Lindsey defended
the Council from numerous attacks.
"Any charge that the members of the Council are wasting public funds comes either from malice or ignorance, and some of you people know better,"
said Mrs. Lindsey.

STILL WAVING.

Ownership of the palms on the streets of the business district is still in doubt, although the Board of Public Works, County Supervisors and the County Council are still working on the problem. In tracing the genealogy of the palms, it has been discovered that the palms were brought by the City Engineer's Committee and paid for by the county in one-half of which was paid by the State and one-half by the county of Kern. After that date Mr. Chambers refused to issue the warrant of the State to the half which he expected by a law of the Legislature fixing the salary of the Superior Judge of Kern county at that figure.

The court holds that the law applicable to the palms is special, fixing the sum at $5000 and orders that the mandate issue.
